INTRODUCTORY NOTE

THIS bibliography is a revision and extension of my Bibliographical Check-List of the Writings of T. S. Eliot, which was published in May 1947 by the Yale University Library.¹ In the section devoted to T. S. Eliot's own books,² both English and American first editions are described in some detail, but for books which contain merely contributions by him, I have described in detail only the actual first edition in book-form, with notes on their first publication in the other country. Later impressions and editions are generally ignored except where some particular significance attaches to them.

The descriptive method I have used is intended to provide the information ordinarily needed about twentieth-century books, in a form simple and brief enough to be easily understood. It is based upon the method adopted by the American Library Association and used in the cards printed and distributed in the United States by the Library of Congress. I have modified this system, which ignores blank (and certain other) leaves, in order to account for all leaves, whether those upon which some printing appears, or blanks, or end-papers. Blank pages (i.e. the blank versos or rectos of printed leaves) are not mentioned in collations because they can obviously be inferred.

The general rule is that when the unnumbered printed preliminary leaves in a volume count up to the first numbered leaf, these leaves are not specified in the collation. When they do not count up, they are specified, e.g. 1 blank leaf, 3 leaves, 9–29 pp., since here the printed preliminary material counts up to only six unnumbered pages. When the first numbered page is the verso of a leaf unnumbered on the recto, the number of the recto is supplied in brackets, e.g. 1 blank leaf, 3 leaves, [9]–29 pp., thus indicating that 10 is the first page-number. The collation '29 pp.' alone would mean that the preliminary material counts up to the first numbered page and that the text ends on a page numbered 29; in this example page [30], being blank, is not specified. The collation '29, [1] pp.', on the other hand, would mean either that the text actually ends on the unnumbered page [30], or that an imprint, index, or some other printed material not part of the text appears on that page. '29 pp., 1 leaf' would indicate that the text ends on p. 29 and that additional material not a continuation of the text appears on a final unnumbered leaf, either recto or verso alone or both being printed.

¹ This in its turn was an elaborated version of A Catalogue of English and American First Editions of the Writings of T. S. Eliot Exhibited in the Yale University Library 22 February to 20 March 1937, published in February 1937.

² Syllabuses and other minor leaflets and broadsides are listed in the Appendix.

Introductory Note

Rather than encumber the descriptions of books with notes on prior periodical publication of individual poems and essays, an index of titles has been prepared containing references to first periodical publication as well as to first, and in some cases subsequent appearance in book-form.

Descriptions are based upon copies of the books themselves and the notes upon information supplied by publishers and other authorities. Where a copy of the book has not been examined, the title is starred. Although completeness has been aimed at, some items of trivial significance have been omitted, e.g. autobiographical data supplied for Harvard Class Books, Who's Who, &c., composite reports and letters to the press where the extent of T. S. Eliot's contribution, if any, could not be determined.

Although most of the books and many of the periodicals are in my own library, I have depended particularly upon the invaluable collection founded by T. S. Eliot's brother, the late Henry Ware Eliot, Jr., at Eliot House, Harvard, and now deposited in the Houghton Library. I should like to record again my great indebtedness to Henry Eliot, during his lifetime, and to his widow Theresa Garrett Eliot for help and encouragement over the past sixteen years. Mr. T. S. Eliot himself has answered innumerable questions with great patience and kindness and has not only called to my attention but often sent me items of which I should otherwise not have known. To the various publishers of Mr. T. S. Eliot's work, particularly Messrs. Faber & Faber and Messrs. Harcourt Brace, I am deeply indebted. I owe to Mr. John Hayward a particular debt for his kindness in reading my manuscript and, by his suggestions and corrections, making it far less faulty than it would otherwise have been.

For calling my attention to items and omissions and for other assistance I am grateful also to James T. Babb, Robert J. Barry, Herbert Cahoon, John Carter, Captain and Mrs. Louis Henry Cohn, G. W. Cottrell, Jr., Earl Daniels, Angel Flores, Kimon Friar, Henry Fuller, Philip Hofer, Sho Kajima, E. McKnight Kauffer, George Kirgo, Cecil Lang, Leon M. Little, William H. McCarthy, Jr.,

BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS BY
T. S. ELIOT

A1 PRUFROCK AND OTHER OBSERVATIONS 1917

First edition:

PRUFROCK | AND | OTHER OBSERVATIONS | BY | T. S. ELIOT | THE EGOIST LTD | OAKLEY HOUSE, BLOOMSBURY STREET | LONDON | 1917

40 pp. 18 × 12 cm. 1s. Stiff buff paper wrappers lettered in black on front cover.

500 copies were published in June 1917. 'The Egoist Subscription Form', a slip measuring approximately 9 × 12½ cm., was loosely inserted in some copies. The price was raised gradually to 5s., at which price the remaining copies were sold in 1920-1. This book was not published in the United States, but its contents were reprinted in Poems by T. S. Eliot (New York, Knopf, 1920), pp. 37-63.

A copy in my possession, with dimensions 18½ × 12½ cm., carries the following autograph inscription on the half-title: 6. . . . One of twenty-five numbered copies of which this is No. 3. Justification de tirage T. S. E.' Concerning this copy Mr. Eliot wrote me on September 8, 1938: 'I had completely forgotten that any numbered signed copies of Prufrock and Other Observations had been issued. . . . I am sorry that my memory is so defective that I cannot tell you whether there really were 24 other numbered copies, or whether that was just my fancy, but if, as you say, the copy in your possession differs slightly from the ordinary edition, I can only suppose there was such a set, though what became of the other copies I have not the remotest notion.'

CONTENTS: The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock—Portrait of a Lady—Preludes—Rhapsody on a Windy Night—Morning at the Window—The Boston Evening Transcript—Aunt Helen—Cousin Nancy—Mr. Apollinax—Hysteria—Conversation galante—La Figlia che Piange.

A2 EZRA POUND HIS METRIC AND POETRY 1917

First edition:

EZRA POUND | HIS METRIC AND POETRY | NEW YORK [ornament] ALFRED A. KNOPF [ornament] 1917

31 pp. front. (port.). 19½ × 13 cm. 35c. Red boards lettered in gold on front cover; end-papers. Plain buff dust-wrapper.

Issued anonymously on November 12, 1917, in connexion with the publication, also by Knopf, of Pound's Lustra (1917). Concerning this book, Eliot writes in The Cantos of Ezra Pound: Some

A. Books and Pamphlets

Testimonies (New York, Farrar & Rinehart [1933]), p. 16: 'There was a time when it did not seem unfitting for me to write a pamphlet, Ezra Pound, His Poetry And Metric [sic] but Ezra was then known only to a few and I was so completely unknown that it seemed more decent that the pamphlet should appear anonymously.' Its authorship was made public in Knopf's The Borzoi 1920 (New York, 1920), p. 112, where it is listed among other books published by this firm as by T. S. Eliot, but with the incorrect date, 1918. This book was not published in England, nor reprinted in the United States.

About 200 copies were published on June 20, 1919. The first copies printed have a typographical error, 'capitiaux' for 'chapitiaux' in line 11, page [13], corrected in later copies. This book was not published in the United States, but its contents were reprinted in Poems (1920), pp. 24-28, 31-36, where the title of 'Le Spectateur' is changed to 'Le Directeur'.

ARA VOS PREC

a. First edition:

Ara Vos Prec | by | T. S. Eliot | [device] | [London] THE OVID PRESS

2 blank leaves, 54 pp., 1 leaf, 2 blank leaves. 29×23 cm. Black paper boards or (later) cloth, yellow cloth back, with white paper label on spine printed upward in black: Ara Vos Prec T. S. Eliot; black end-papers.

Colophon (p. [55]): This edition of 264 copies is the first book printed by John Rodker and was completed Dec. 10th. 1919. Of the edition:—10 copies unnumbered are for review. 4 copies on Japan vellum numbered 1-4 & not for sale. 30 signed copies numbered 5-34. 220 copies numbered 35-255. The initials & colophon by E. A. Wadsworth.

Published by John Rodker early in February 1920. The first copies issued (among them presentation copies sent out by the author on February 5) were bound in black boards with yellow cloth back and paper label. The error 'Vus' for 'Vos' in the title was discovered after all the sheets had been printed and was corrected only on the label. Concerning the title, Mr. Eliot wrote me on February 21, 1936: 'The correct title of the book is Ara Vos Prec. It only happened to be Vus on the title page because I don't know Provençal, and I was quoting from an Italian edition of Dante the editor of which apparently did not know Provençal either. It would seem that there is no such word as Vus in that language.'

Of the copies on vellum, No. 1 (presented to John Quinn) is bound in black morocco with tan morocco back, stamped on front and back covers with decorative design in blind, and on front cover with title in gold: Ara Vos Prec. Another copy of this issue is unnumbered but has a certificate signed by John Rodker on p. [10] and is bound in red pigskin stamped with decorative design in blind on back cover and in blind and gold on front cover, and with title in gold on front cover: Ara Vos Prec. Both copies have black endpapers. The signed copies have the author's signature below the number on p. [10], but in all other respects are identical with the unsigned copies. Of these latter, several of the earlier numbers were used as presentation copies, carry the author's initials on p. [10], and are bound in paper boards with cloth back. The frequency with which unnumbered copies appear would seem to indicate that more than the scheduled ten were so issued. In any case there is evidence in a letter from T. S. Eliot to Rodker (now in the Schwab Collection at the University of Virginia) that only three copies were actually sent out for review purposes.

CONTENTS: Gerontion—Burbank with a Baedeker: Bleistein with a Cigar—Sweeney among the Nightingales—Sweeney Erect—Mr. Eliot's Sunday Morning Service—Whispers of Immortality—The Hippopotamus—A Cooking Egg—Lune de Miel—Dans le Restaurant—Le Spectateur—Mélange Adultère de Tout—Ode—The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock—Portrait of a Lady—Preludes—Rhapsody on a Windy Night—Morning at the Window—Conversation galante—Aunt Helen—Cousin Nancy—Mr. Appolinax [sic]—The Boston Evening Transcript—La Figlia che Piange.

Published on February 18, 1920. Although the poems occur in different order, the contents are identical with those of Ara Vos Prec, with the exception that 'Hysteria' is substituted for 'Ode' and 'Le Spectateur' is printed as 'Le Directeur'.

A6 THE WASTE LAND 1922

a. First edition:

THE WASTE LAND | BY | T. S. ELIOT | [quotation in three lines]
| NEW YORK | BONI AND LIVERIGHT | 1922

1 blank leaf, 3 leaves, 9-64 pp. $19\frac{1}{2} \times 13$ cm. \$1.50. Flexible or (later) stiff black cloth lettered in gold on front cover and on spine; end-papers. Salmon dust-wrapper printed in black; outer glazine wrapper.

Colophon (p. [6]): Of the one thousand copies printed of The Waste Land this volume is number. . . . [The number is stamped in type approximately 5 mm. (later 2 mm.) high.]

Published on December 15, 1922. The first copies printed have the word 'mountain' correctly spelled in line 339 (p. 41); in later copies the 'a' has dropped out. Approximately the first 500 copies bound have the flexible cloth binding and figures 5 mm. high in the colophon.

Concerning its publication, Ezra Pound wrote in the Gotham Book Mart's catalogue We Moderns (New York, 1940), p. 24: 'The bearing of this poem was not over-estimated, nevertheless the immediate reception of it even by second rate reviewers was due to the purely fortuitous publication of the notes, and not to the text itself. Liveright wanted a longer volume and the notes were the only available unpublished matter.' The notes were not included in the periodical appearances of the poem in The Criterion and The Dial.

CONTENTS: I. The Burial of the Dead.—II. A Game of Chess.—III. The Fire Sermon.—IV. Death by Water.—V. What the Thunder Said.—Notes.

THE WASTE LAND | BY | T. S. ELIOT | [quotation in three lines]
| NEW YORK | BONI AND LIVERIGHT

Colophon (p. [6]): One thousand copies of the Second Edition of The Waste Land were printed of which this volume is number. . . .
[Number stamped in type 2 mm. high.]

Published probably early in 1923. Although called 'Second Edition' in the colophon, this is actually a second impression from the same setting of type as the first edition, but with a different colophon. With the incorrect 'mount in' in line 339 (p. 41).

A. Books and Pamphlets

Concerning the incorrect dates assigned to certain of the essays in the table of contents, the author wrote to me on December 30, 1948: 'I think the explanation is that I dated the essays entirely by guess-work when I prepared the volume in 1932, and never bothered to look up the exact dates of first periodical publication.' The dates are, with one exception, corrected in the second American edition (New York, 1950), but one new error, '(1928)' for '(1929)' for 'Second Thoughts about Humanism' is made. All the dates are correctly printed in the third English edition (London, 1951).

the margins of many pages were incorrect because of faulty imposition of the formes as a result of unskilled war-time labour. The entire impression would have been destroyed except that it was necessary to meet the announced publication date (May 11, 1943) in order to preserve copyright, and consequently 788 copies for review and other purposes were distributed before the formes could be correctly reimposed for a fresh impression. On May 5, 1943, the 3,377 copies of the first impression then remaining were destroyed and replaced by a second impression of 3,500 copies. These do not carry the edition note on the verso of the title-page. The book was officially published on May 11, 1943. Subsequent impressions may be identified by code designations within brackets on the verso of the title-page.

10s. 6d. Green cloth stamped in gold on spine; end-papers. Grey dust-wrapper printed in black and red.

19,950 copies were published on March 9, 1950. A number of copies (a few hundred at most) have a misprint 'here' for 'her' in line 1, page 29, which was overlooked in the page-proof, but corrected in the press after these copies had been bound. Copies with and without the error were bound up and issued simultaneously. (The first copy delivered to the publishers, as also the wrapped proof copies, did not contain the error.) The whole edition had unexpectedly to be rushed through the press, during the author's absence in South Africa, in order to coincide with the production of the play in New York and the publication of the American edition. (A few proof copies in grey paper wrappers were made up for the publishers before publication.) On verso of title-page: First published in mcm1 . . .

b. First American edition:

10,000 copies were published on March 10, 1950. These have pages 35-36 cancelled and replaced with a new leaf correcting an error in the attribution of the last two speeches on page 35. The publishers state that 'about ten copies (at most)' escaped cancellation. (A few sets of the page proofs, containing the error, in pale blue paper wrappers, were distributed as advance copies. These have certain other variations from the published text.) Through oversight, the words 'first American edition' were omitted from the verso of the title-page on the first printing. Second and subsequent impressions may be identified by code symbols.

Colophon (recto of second leaf following p. 62): This edition of Transit of Venus by Harry Crosby, with a preface by T. S. Eliot, being Volume II of the Collected Poems of Harry Crosby, is printed in hand-set doric type at the Black Sun Press, Paris, 1931, under the direction of and for Caresse Crosby and is strictly limited to twenty lettered copies on Japanese Vellum and fifty numbered copies on Holland Paper together with the sheets for five hundred copies on uncut Navarre.

Mr. Harry F. Marks, the American agent for this edition, states that to the best of his knowledge, the sets on Japanese vellum were never issued, and that it is doubtful that the full fifty copies on Holland (announced to sell at $40 the set bound) were printed. At least several of the Navarre copies were numbered, in some instances with numbers between one and fifty theoretically reserved for the Holland paper sets.
